Directly after the hour of eight had sounded Charles D. Noyes, chairman of the town committee, called the caucus to order, and upon the nomination of H. F. Palmer, Amos A. Browning was selected as chairman, and took the chair admidst applause.

Chairman Browning thanked the meeting for the honor of presiding over the deliberations of a republican caucus. He congratulated them upon the spiendid large hall for meetings of this

To ex-Mayor Thayer's statements I couple the figures, interest on purchase bonds $9,080, interest on improvement bonds $2,400, interest on notes of old administration $2,340, gas and electric sinking fund $6,650.92, gas and electric depreciation $13,532.99, making a total of $34,050.91 to be added on the other side of the account. Some may think that the sinking fund and depreciation fund should not be included, but without them there is a $14,090 deficit in the department. The many departments of the city are to be congratulated on the success of their accomplishments.

Attention was called to the bad financial administration of the past year at the democratic caucus, and reference made to the borrowing of $20,006 at 41-2 per cent. of the Norwich Savings society and putting it at interest at 4 per cent. We should bear in mind that it was necessary to do this. The sinking fund had to have the money, and only 4 per cent interest can be secured at the banks for money on deposit. To get money, however, you must pay 41-2 per cent, and it was necessary to get it to carry through the requirements. There was a comparison of the banker's administration with the lawyer's administration. I hope the latter did no wrong, said Mr.

Norwich Savings society and the rate of 41-2 per cent was paid for it. Why this fall, when a year ago there was $23,300 due the Norwich Savings so-

The committee on constitution and anone, of which the Rev. Dr. Samuel Hart is chairman, will present a report discussing the amendments proposed last year and referred for their deliberate consideration during the interim. One provides that no clergyman shall vote in the election of a bishop unless he has been actually resident in Congressive for one year. Another sales come up is a proposition to divide the diocese in two, Many realize that the work of supervision has outgrown the powers of a single head and that greater efficiency and progress would be attained by two bishops, each have ing his own territory, convention and institutions. The matter has been discussed in ten different articles published recently in the Connecticut Churchman, which is the organ of the bishop and of the Church club. In one of these articles Bishop Brewster advocated it and offered a personal subscription of $1,000 toward the support of the new diocese. All that is hoped, however, from this convention, is the appointment of a large, representative committee to digest a plan for division and recommend.

representative committee to digest a plan for division and report next June. All such questions as boundary lines, names, support, division of trust funds, etc., which require careful consideration, which would prepare the way for an intelligent vote in 1910. The only reason for haste is that the consent of the general convention must be obtained, and this holds its triennial meeting in Cincinnati, beginning October 5, 1910.
